A Romance of Two States.

On Tuesday there were borne from a sumptuous house high up on Fifth avenue, for interment in a Connecticut town on the New Haven road, not far from this city, the remains of a revered wife and mother, whose distant girlhood had supplied the heroine of a romance as dramatic as ever found exposition in novel or on stage. Half a century ago, when she was the only unmarried daughter of an old and wealth family of the town in whose cemetery her body now rests, she came to New York in the bloom and vivacity of youth, just conscious of its own power, to visit the family household of one of our first merchants. A prolongation of her sojourn here did not excite the suspition of her parents until they were surprised by information that her delay was possibly occasioned by the frequent calls of a gentleman, a lieutenant in the British navy, whose attentions seemed omniously serious, when her mother took the family carriage, precipitately for the city, to convey back the giddy girl. Upon arraignment before the maternal bar the young lady did not deny the frequent visits of the alleged suitor, whom her New York friends had seen no reason to interfere with; indeed, upon stepping into the carriage to go home, (there was no New Haven railroad then,) she said quite coolly, "It's useless to find fault now, Ma, for I am married." Such, indeed, was the startling fact; after a short and only finally suspected summer's courtship, she and the lieutenant had been clandestinely married, and before horrified mother and romantic daughter had been in their Connecticut home twenty-four hours, the bold young sailor was there too, to claim his wife! But he found her a prisoner, locked in her own room, and both parents met his appeals with steady refusal to acknowledge his authority. The girl was but a child, they said, not conscious of her own mind, and they should resist with every passible form of law attempt to remove her from their costody. The husband, urging that they urged each other, was told that she whom he had made his wife in name only now regreteed her sentimental folly and wished to see him no more. Astounded at this assertion the young man passionately impugned its truth. Would he be generous enough to give her up, he was asked, if she herself assured him of her desire to that effect? Chivalrously, though too rashly perhaps, he agreed to do so confident, undoubtedly, that she would prove true to him. And then came the most extraordinary scene of the little drama. A married sister strikingly resembling the yet imprisoned virgin wife had been hastily summoned from the city for the purpose, and artfully pressed to intensify the resemblance, hurriedly entered the room where the lieutenaut was present, with a friend for a witness, to learn his fate, and with simulated sobs hastily hid her face on her mother's bosom. Supposing her to be the wife whom he agitatedly called by name, the deceived husband begged her to go with him. "I wish to remain with my mother!" was the apparently tearful answer; without so much as a glance for him, and, without another word, the lieutenant bowed to the parents and child, and at once withdrew with his friend from the room and the house. On his way back to New York by steamboat a favorite dog that accompanied him leaped overboard, and he plunging instantly over to the rescue, was drowned!—New York Corr. Baltimore Sun. Feb. 23d.

A German Theologian.

Professor Lahnis enters in a light cloud of blue smoke that goes out to meet him as the door opens. He ambles up to his desk and turns upon us a plump face, nasurally red, but flushed by climbing two flights of stairs to an overripe strawberry color; plants himself against the blackboard with hands folded under his coat-tails, and shuts his eyes—or they shut themselves; It is difficult for him to keep them open. He talks fast and vehemently, swings back and forth, carelessly erasing the chalk-marks from the blackboard with his broadcloth, and opens his mouth widely to the embarrassment of his only tooth. He looks altogether, with his red, chubby face, like a dissipated cherub. It is a favorite amusement with the Ameristudents to see the Professor search for his pocket testament. He wants to make a reference to the original. His eyes are shut as usual. Suddenly, without any previous intimation of what he is about to do, he strikes his finger nervously against the left breast of his coat, to sound the pocket—no book. Then the right pocket more excitedly—no book. Then he strikes both hands alternately against his coat-tails—without success. In nervous desperation he thumps his trowsers' pockets — in vain. He pauses a moment to reflect, and then institutes another search in the reverse order, and more carefully,—trowsers, coat-tails and breast-pockets. All the time we can see his book lying beside his manuscript on his desk. Although he looks troubled and annoyed, he has not opened his eyes yet. Suddenly it occurs to him, and his troubled features assume their natural look of cherubic serenity as his eyes rest for a moment on the stray volume and then close again in peaceful meditation. It is a thing of almost daily occurrence, and affords excellent diversion to foreigners generally, yet the sober-minded Germans do not appreciate the drollery of it in the least. But the Professor's mind is strong, facile and clear, as his body is gross, awkward and tubbish. It is astonishing how ethereal a spirit will sometimes consent to take up its residence in a body like his. I have seen here in Germany the genius of metaphysics keeping house in a structure dedicated to the beer God Gambrinus, and perfectly at home.—Sunday Afternoon for March.

Private Medical Institute.
209, KEARNEY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, Established in 1854,
For the Permanent Cure of all Special and Chronic Diseases, as also all Female Complaints and Diseases of the Nervous System.
THE IMMENSE DESTRUCTION OF human life annually from secret and chronic diseases, caused this old and reliable institution to be established, first in Philadelphia, Penn., in 1850, and afterwards in San Francisco, Cal., in 1854, as a private dispensary, in order to afford the afflicted the best medical and surgical treatment for the above and all other affections and complaints. Consultation at the Institute, or by letter, FREE.
To the Afflicted:
Dr. L. J. Czapkay would most respectfully inform the public of the Pacific coast that, at the earnest solicitation of his numerous friends, and hundreds of those unfortunately afflicted with disease, he has reopened his MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE and resumed the practice of his profession. The Doctor would remind all those who are in need of medical aid, that since relinquishing his very extensive and successful practice in San Francisco, he has visited the principal cities in Europe, inspecting diligently the experience of the most learned in the profession, the benefit from which he offers to all in need of his services. Rheumatic affections, chronic catarrh, diseases of the stomach and kidneys, liver complaints, etc., successfully treated. Those who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, physical and mental debility, are assured of a permanent cure. Charges moderate. All communication strictly confidential. Medicines sent by express. Address,

RENO EVENING GAZETTE.

Washoe County Official Press.

RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA

FRIDAY.....MARCH 8, 1878.

Among the spectators at the Italian Bal Masque last evening was Hon. John W. Mackay. His look of contentment appeared to argue a brilliant future for the bonanzas —Ex.

Now you know, reader, how those men get their points. It only needs that they may look upon Mackay and having seen that great man, one flies to the evening "Stick" and the other to the morning "Chronic," with such reports as these: "John W. Mackay was seen at the theater, and apparently enjoyed the play. This refutes the argument against Con. Virginia dividends for an indefinite period." The other reaches his den out of breath to say, "Mackay was seen to go up Kearney street yesterday with a look of weariness upon his countenance. When questioned by your reporter, he laid it to neuralgia, but the readers of this paper know that the Con. Virginia shaft now stands full of water, and the miners must henceforth use diving bells." If John W. give a beggar fifty cents, several journalists —acute men they are—see in that act a rare development of ore in the Sierra Nevada. If he should collect a debt, then would the "Chronic" be assured that he had need of every resource, and "there had been" grave whispers in regard to dissolution, &c., &c. That's where you get the points, gentlemen.

Mr. Bones, of Almeda county, the Workingmen's Senator, who was to lead those unfortunates out of bondage through the power of statesmanship, seems to be a little unfortunate. His fellow laborers do not find that curative power in his acts which they had expected, and threated to administer upon his estate with hemp. Bones thereupon rises and says that he made a mistake, did not mean to vote as he did vote, and was confused by the number of amendments. He bases upon this excuse a plea for the postponement of his own hanging by his irascible constituents, and the Workingmen begin to doubt the efficacy of their own politics.

THE NEW POPE'S POLICY.—Rome, 6.—The Pope, on receiving the parish priests, recommended them to preach Jesus Christ, His life and teachings, and to guard their flocks against the infidelity and immorality so greatly prevailing—the result of a corrupt press. The Pope, in all his exhortations, avoids mention of the Virgin, for the purpose of discountenancing Mraiolatry, which his predecessor so long encouraged. It has shocked most of the people. The Pope, in his coronation speech, made no allusion to the late Pius IX, although Cardinal Di Pietro, in addressing the Pontiff, had been eloquent in his praise of the deceased Pope. The omission could not, therefore, be accidental, and has been variously commented upon. The Pope and Cardinal Franchi have determined on a policy of reconciling, as far as possible, the interests of the Church and State on questions pending with the various Governments.

ASSESSMENTS FOR FEBRUARY.—A San Francisco paper has an article showing the amount of mining assessments called and delinquent in February. The list is said to be the largest known since the discovery of the Comstock. The aggregate by counties is given as follows: Storey, $1,398,300: Elko, $67,000: Lincoln, 50,000; Lyon, $20,000; Nye, $12,000. Total $1,449,300.

Leo XIII did not mention Pius IX in his coronation speech, and the same act provokes much unfavorable comment. According to the priests, Leo is a fine looking man, with more gentle features than were possessed by his illustrious predecessor

The municipal elections throughout the State of New York have shown Republican gains, and Tilden will soon be heard to say that the loss is not his, but belongs to the people at large. And if they will submit, &c.

Congress is hopelessly behind in the work of the present session, and the indications are favorable for a prolonged session. We hope the Texas Pacific bill may pass before adjournment.

The Superintendent of the Philidelphia Mint issued yesterday $250,000 of the new silver coin now making in that institution.

The Long Bond Bill.

Full Text of the Bill as passed by the Senate Wednesday.

Be it enacted, etc. : That in lieu of that amount of 4 per cent. bonds of the United States authorized to be issued by the Act of July 14, 1860, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to issue a sum not exceeding $100,000,000 in coupon bonds of the United States, of the denominations of $25, $50 and $100, and of equal sums of each of said denominations, redeemable in coin fifty years from the date of issue, and bearing interest payable semi-annually at the rate of 4 per centum per annum; and said bonds shall be exempt from taxation in like manner as those in place of which they are to be issued.

Sec. 2. That said coupon bonds shall be made payable to the order of the person who shall pay the money therefor; and the name of such person, or his or her assignee, or of any subsequent assignee, and his or her residence, shall be registered as owner of such bond, in like manner as if the same was a registered bond; and such coupon bonds shall be transferrable only by assignment, duly acknowledged before and certified under the seal of a Clerk of a State Court of Record, or Federal Court, or United States Commissioner, which assignment shall also be executed in the presence of two subscribing witnesses; and such assignment may also be made leaving the name of the assignee blank; and when so made in blank and executed as hereinbefore provided, said coupon bond shall be transferrable by delivery in like manner as if payable to bearer.

Sec. 3. That coupons attached to said bonds shall be payable either in United States legal tender notes, or in coin, at the option of the United States, and the same shall be paid at any of the Sub-Treasuries or money depositories of the United States, or at any National Bank. And it is hereby made the duty of each of the National Banks to pay said coupons upon presentation, without charge, and remit the same to the Treasury for redemption; but said National Banks shall only be required to do so upon production of the proper bond to which the coupon presented shall have been attached.

Sec. 4. That the Secretary shall keep said bonds for sale at different Sub-Treasuries, National banks and money depositories of the United States, and shall dispose of the same at par and accrued interest, for coin, or for United States legal tender notes at their nominal value; and such legal tender notes shall all be reissued and the proceeds and coin received for such bonds shall be applied to the redemption of outstanding bonds of the United States which are redeemable and bear the highest rate of interest of such bonds.

Sec. 5. That the provision of sections 3704 and 3705 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, authorizing the issue of another bond in room of any registered bond lost or destroyed, are hereby made applicable to bonds to be issued under this statute, but only in case of loss or destruction thereof before execution of assignment in blank thereon.

The Coming Peace Conference.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 6.—It is regarded as settled that only the treaty powers will take part in the congress, although minor powers will be allowed to bring their views under its notice. The Agence Russe states that Germany and Austria have consented to the proposal for a congress of the chief Ministers of the Powers to be held at Berlin. The assent of the other Governments is expected. Prince Gortschakoff is much better and will go to the Congress.

VIENNA, March 6.—Unless fresh and unexpected difficulties arise the congress will probably meet in Berlin between the 22d and 25th instants.

LONDON, March 6.—A correspondent at Berlin says that in consequence of the reiterated request of Russia, Bismarck will probably consent to preside over the congress at Berlin, if England agrees to be present.

A Paris dispatch states that M. Waddington, Minister of Foreign Affairs, will certainly attend the congress at Berlin.

Edward D. Knight, one of the pioneer journalists of San Francisco, has gone to press for the last time. Mr. Knight had earned the editor's epitaph, "Genial and poor."

CARD OF THANKS.

We, the undersigned, wish to tender our thanks to Mr. J. A. Brumsey, State Agent and Mr James H. Marshall, City Agent of the Home Mutual Fire Insurance Company of San Francisco, for the highly satisfactory and unprecedented manner in which the representatives of the above named Company have settled their portion of the loss which we sustained at the late fire on Frisbie's corner. We take great pleasure in recommending the Home Mutual Insurance Company to the insuring public for honest, square, and high-toned dealing. IVANCOVICH Bros.

The Union Pacific.

NEW YORK, March 6.—At a meeting of the Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, resolutions were adopted acknowledging the necessity for a sinking fund to provide for the final payment of the Government debt, and expressing a willingness to anticipate the debt upon any basis anbmitted by the Government that is not a menace to the present or future prosperity of the road. They declare that the company is not justified in accepting any sum in excess of $1,000,000 in yearly payments to the sinking fund; such sums to include all claims, annual or otherwise, now made by the Government, and the Board of Directors is advised not to accept any settlement that fixes the sum in excess of this amount. The Board of Directors are requested to form a volunteer sinking fund that will ultimately provide for the principal and interest of the Government debt, the semi-annual contributions to it not to exceed $1,000,000. Some of the stockholders declare that the action of the Government in the dealings with the Company for the last two years was unjust and unreasonable, and that while the Company had carried out their contract with the Government, the latter had failed to keep equally good faith with the road.

The annual report for 1877 shows the gross earnings, exclusive of the Omaha bridge, to be $12,473,203; operating expenses, including taxes, $5,273,421; leaving as the surplus earnings, $7,199,782. Total interest and dividends disbursed, $6,224,710. The funded debt of the Company has been decreased $78,000 during the year. $229,470 have been expended for new construction. The Company has on hand, still unsold, 10,764,947 acres of land.

A MARRIAGE AT THE INTERNATIONAL.—Virginia Chronicle: A young couple arrived by the lightning express this morning and registered at the International Hotel as W. Doan and wife. They were assigned to room 48, but had no sooner reached it than the young man inquired of Mr. Luce, chief clerk, the whereabouts of the County Clerk's office. Being directed there, he went at once and applied for a marriage license for Wallace Doan and Nellie E. Corbett, both of Boca, California. He then returned to the hotel, while J. P. McFarland, the County Clerk, sought out Parson McGrath, and at half-past 2 o'clock this afternoon the twain were made one flesh in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. McFarland. The latter then retired, and shortly afterwards the following dispatch, signed by the principals, was wired to Boca: "The job is done; turn things loose." The happy man is a brother of L. E. Doan, of the Boca brewery.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Lenten Ramble.

When the searcher for matter of local interest to his readers, finds that a horrid dullness has set down on the town, he may be pardoned if he transgresses, for the moment, the politic bounds which offen harrass the untamed reporter. And should he launch forth into an open sea of thoughts, and when in this unrudder-ed mood speak of subjects antiquely modern, and assumed to appertain to the essential elements of religion, appear irreverently and sport alike with words, and dogmas held in veneration by those whose beneficent lives guide so well the social and religious world, will not these throw the veil of charity over his hasty lines, nor shower upon his head the anathema merited by the less frank but more politic and cautious.

A vast majority of the Christian world are now observing a special season of fasting and self-examination, even self-denial, with the view of subsequently leading purer and more devetedly Christian lives. The objects to be attained by this unique observance of Lent are those in the main of a character, which would be commended even the most degenerated barbarian. But, as those untaught to observe this 40 days period of special grace, glance over the strange history of Lent, and air of the musty past supersticiously gathers about it, ramifies its quaint intertices and surprises rather than shocks the mind that in an enlightened age the swaddling bands of the past, like the ancient tradictions referred to Christ prove a hinderance to the progress of religious thought and its intelligent practice.

In the Greek Church wine, oil and flesh are not used during Lent. No food whatever is used during the "Holy Thursday," while "dry food" is alone consumed on the other days. Indeed the divergent observance of Lent lead to the separation of the Greek and Roman Catholic Churches. Just on what shall be the articles of diet during Lent, we quote a queer passage found in a religious paper, published in Paris in the 16th century:

"After the sallad (eaten in Lent at the first service) we eat fried beanes, by which we understand confession. When we would have beanes well sooden we lay them in steepe, for other wise they will never seeth kindly. Therefore, if we propose to mend our faults, it is not sufficient barely to confess them at all adventure, but we must let our confession lie in steepe in the water of meditation."

The Greek church is very strict in keeping Lent; The Roman Catholic less strict; The Church of England or the Episcopal church as it is better known in this country, makes Lenten observances voluntary; while the Lutherans do not impose any obligatory rules for the fasting etc., during this typical period. The theory of the church appears to be, that its members by putting themselves, for a specified time, in a particular frame of mind, by performing special church service, and denying themselves pleasures, which they enjoy with perfect freedom and without the least violence to conscience at any other times, that by so doing, and arranging the thoughts in conformity to the same strict, even unnatural discipline, that they shall thus be inducted into a most praiseworthy religious status, and glide thereby smoothly through 325 days of the year. As frankly as before, they are not clearly wrong, but are far in the Christian way. It might be said, why allow sins to pile up until forty or more days before the time of Christ's crucifiction? Why not live each day that life which is the best we can live, yet ever struggling and making special effort, at times most favorable to ourselves, to attain to a purer, nobler standard of grace and truth?

The church enjoins that the course of the individual member shall be as we have indicated, but as a society, collective action is ever necessary, and hence the church service, rules, days, etc., are set for the whole church and are therefore more inclusive and general than special and concentrated, as in individual cases.

It must be that to suit a class in society, we who all partake of the past, gather from its rich storehouse, select portions of the "spoils of time" shall find the conserved relicts of the ages agone, only arryed in garments cut mostly after modern patterns, and dyed in other hues than the rich Lydian purple. We find ourselves in a pleasant mood and can no longer criticise. The leaven of life each day gives vivacity to things corporeal and incorporeal. The inconsistencies so glaring in others are similarly found in ourselves, and like the light and the shadow, lie side by side, and even blend measurably together, as the delicate hues in the variegated flower. It is only in the lapse of centuries that one can note our obedience to the Omnicient law of God and Nature. "Go forward."

Dull, and Why?—The first warm days of Spring are always dull. Then it is that the change in temperature almost puts one half asleep. Business is done in a half indolent manner. All work is gone to and done in a way which makes the laborer say by his actions: "I would enjoy being idle for a few days, if you please." This Spring fever has settled upon our little town and produced such marked soporific effects that men are too sleepy to make the fractional part of an item for the papers. The effect may be like unto that of a man with a full attack of nightmare who has been heavily dosed with some strong opiate. He fancies a huge meducae has fastened its longs tentacles about him, and yet he slumbers unconscious of ill, by reason of this strange morphetic Spring fever. Much abused reader, don't slight us in these lazy days. If you have anything of the slightest interest, come to our and your own relief. Tell us anything, take us anywhere, but be faithful and honest to us, and our best efforts will go to repay your kindness.

Cowie has secured bail in Virginia City with John Young Jr. and George Lammon as sureties. One dollar to one apple that Ah Chuey's case is forgotten without a proper recognition of the services which sent him to Bodie. Breen was said to be a prominent candidate for Sheriff, and it is possible that he may be prosecuted on that score if upon no other.

Roll of Honor.—The following are the names of the pupils on the roll of honor of the Wadsworth public school for the month ending March 5th: Carrie Raphael, 97; Albert Lievre 92 5; Gussie Raphael, 91; Cora Ferguson, 86 5; Arthur McPherson, 86; Jennie McPherson, 85; Elihu Proctor, 85; Eugene Lievre, 85.

Francis G. Butler, Teacher.

Mr. J. H. Borland returned from San Francisco this morning. He reports that west of Sacramento there is much inundated land yet, while almost on every hand, especially around and below Sacramento, there may be seen the markings of even a deluge. Mr. B. will return to Rye Patch tomorrow morning.

The civil case of A. Jose vs. Robert Steele was brought up for trial to-day in the Justice Court. The cause of action is to recover damages from defendant for injury done to plaintiff's wagon. The adjudicators of the damages in question are twelveable bodied peers of this municipality.

Attention is called to the "ad" of Mr. A. N. Wilson, who has a house and blacksmith shop for sale at Summit, Plumas county, Cal. The "ad" explains itself. Those desirous of procuring this desirable piece of property will govern themselves accordingly.

Meeting—The Trustees of the Reno Fire Department are requested to meet at the office of C. A. Richardson, Justice of the Peace, on Saturday evening, March 9th, at 8 o'clock sharp. By order of the President.

J. M. Flanagan, Secretary.

Trade in town during the past week has been better than during the week preceding. This most welcome improvement is due principally to the roads being passable for travel from every quarter.

There will be much fun to-night at the mush social, held at the Methodist Church. Of course you will be there with the jolliest lady that you know.

The Riverside meeting at Bender's bank and the lecture at the Methodist Church were not brilliant successes last evening.

The caution notice, seen in in another column, of the Jones & Kinkead mining stock shows that this stock does not drag on the market.

We said $92,000 in the County Treasury in yesterday's issue. We should have said $22,000.

A Lucky Throw.

How a Man Won a Thousand Dollar Horse.

[From the New York Sportsman.]

The following good story was lately recited to us by a gentleman, who assures us that if it has ever been published he has never seen it. It is said to be thoroughly characteristic of the hero, who will at once be recognized by old residents of the great city of St. Louis. Old Bob McB. was a famous breeder and a lover of the horse. Once upon a time (about twenty years ago) it happened that he needed a certain large lump of money, and the most expedient way to get it was by disposing of some one of his many fine horses. But the spirit of speculation would not, even in his emergency, permit him to part with the horse in the usual "mumdrum style," as he called it, and he determined to raffle the animal. The horse was valued at $1,000 and Old Bob placed the chances at $10 a piece, it thus requiring 100 chances before the raffle would be complete.

The scene of the affair was a famous saloon, and the resort of many army officers going to and returning from the plains. The first night after Old Bod had perfected the details of his little speculation, he was challenged in the bar-room by an officer of very bluff manners, who inquired what he had there? Bod replied, in no way pleased at the manner of salutation, to the effect that it was a raffle for a horse, but managed to keep down his "bile" and asked the officer if he would take a chance. The officer "allowed" he would, and handed over the $10. Presently the officer demanded when the d—n raffle was going to come off, anyhow? "Why," replied Old Bod, beginning to lose all restraint, "you're the first and only man, so far, that's taken a chance. But," continued Bob, "if you want to raffle so d—n bad, come ahead. I'll take the other ninety-nine chances."

They went to work at the dice-box, and Old Bob impetuously demanded first throw. This was willingly acceded to, and the result of his three casts was a seventeen, an eighteen and sixteen—total fifty-one. This was an astonishingly high throw, and the officer determined to to try his luck at once and end the uncertainty. To the astonishment of all present he threw fifty-three, which nearly caused his opponent to break a blood-vessel. Old Bob now hopelessly and mechanically went to work. Throw after throw was made, but it was of no use, and Old Bob could never touch fifty three.

The officer next morning rode off on the horse, and thanked his lucky stars for the grand cast which had made him the possessor of a splendid charger for $10. Of Bob's rage the writer does not speak. He refused to drink with the officer, and went away cursing his own precipitancy and the blind luck of some people. The story is based on an actual occurrance.

Ben Wade's Last Sickness.

A correspondent of the New York Times, who recently visited the sick-room of Hon. Ben Wade, writes:

From Dr. Tuttle I learned much of the case that is interesting. The Doctor is sure that the fever was on him some ten days before he took to his room, but no persuasion could keep him from his daily walk so long as he could command the necessary strength. The tenacity with which he clung to the command over his body has been curiously illustrated. On several occasions, until recently, he has got out of bed, and, finding that he could stand but not move, has consented to be helped back again. Even yesterday he moved himself back and forth in bed, and turned himself over without assistance. He has been enabled to keep so long against the wasting effects of the fever (it is twenty two days since he took to his bed) by the fact that he could regularly take and digest some slight nourishment, such as gruel, beef tea, and occasionally a few raw oysters; but yesterday there were alarming symptoms of a failure in the tone of the stomach—alarming because, though slight, the end would follow very quickly upon the inability to take food.

It is the impression of Dr. Tuttle, also, that the break in Mr. Wade's system dates from the Cincinnati Convention of 1876. The fatigue and the heat were so much for him at that time, coupled with the interest which he took in the subsequent campaign, that he has never been as well since. I am assured—though not by Dr. Tuttle—that Mr. Wade was well himself aware of this fact, and that, while he would never have begrudged giving the few years of life left to him to the cause he loved so well, yet he was fain to confess at times that the result hardly justified the sacrifice.
